I am meeting with Josh this week to really get things going for my office for the next school year.
- O. International Student Representative Nath
- My office has been working on transitioning. I finally got in touch with the previous ISR and I am starting to get transition documents but I still haven't got access to instagram and stuff so that should be there by the end of the quarter.
  - Apart from that, I have tried to find volunteers who can help out with the office and we are also starting to create a list of all student organizations that will be relevant to the ISR's office eventually and sending out emails to set up meetings.
- P. Administrative Representatives O'Connor, Luna, Alexander, Solomon, Chacon
- Josh: "Hi friends, just a quick update. At this moment in time, you should all have access to your USAC email accounts. That is how administration, myself, Jessica, the notes, the agendas. They will all go out to your formal accounts. If you do not have access to that please email me and I am going to drop my email in the chat. Please email me ASAP so we can get you access to those USAC email accounts. Number two, Carl did just point out that you all have quite a few appointments that are coming up. Please read your bylaws and the constitution particularly well. You should read all of it. It is listed on the USAC website but if you have not looked over your specific bylaws please do so as many you have appointments that need to be appointed by Week 10 which is next week. Please make sure that you are working with My-Lan and Carl to get those on the agenda. They have to be posted by this Thursday because Monday is a holiday so please by five o'clock have it posted to the agenda. Start looking at what your appointments need to do and who you want to appoint. Jessica, Orlando, Patty, and I are all here for you as well. Carl has been through this so he knows. Reach out to any of us if you have any questions about those pieces. But read your bylaws and know what your appointments are and start making a plan of when you want to bring your appointments forward to get voted in. That's all I have right now. Take care of yourselves as we are entering finals. There is a lot on your plate right now, so don't overstress yourself. Make sure that you are pacing yourself with what is coming up on your plate."
  - Jessica: "One quick reminder for your board of directors appointments. As you are putting out the applications, try to find students if you can include it in your application that the board retreat dates are June 13th through 15th and I will put that in the chat. It is really critical for the students who come forward to be interviewed to be appointed for those dates because that is really where they are going to get all of the training overview of ASUCLA and how the board operated the financial things. If a student were to miss that, then they wouldn't be able to serve their term as the board of directors appointment for USAC. So just something to be transparent about when you are getting students to interview or apply to the position, make sure that they can commit to being available for those dates for the retreat. If there is anything you need for your office that you are not getting access to, let us know and we can help out with that. If anybody feels like you want to meet one-on-one, I am happy to set up individual zoom meetings as needed so just reach out."
  - George: "The same updates from last week. I said that there is an upcoming alumni association board meeting on June 4th. There also will be a new alumni rep for you all. I still have to meet them but there is a new person and they will be your new alumni rep. So awesome. I will keep you all posted on that. I don't know when my last USAC meeting will be but I will let you know."

A Resolution for the Removal of Punitive Notations from Student Transcripts

Sponsors: Eliana Sisman, General Representative #3; Juan Flores, Community Service Commissioner; Phoebe Chiu, Facilities Commissioner, Carl King, Jr., President; Hansika Nath, International Student Representative

Whereas, grades of ‘Incomplete’ are assigned when a student’s work is of adequate quality but is incomplete for reasonable cause. Students typically only have one quarter to complete their work to fulfill the Incomplete Petition Contract unless there are extenuating circumstances which require a letter of support from the professor<sup>1</sup>, creating another barrier. Once students complete their work, the professor will fill out a Report of Academic Revision and submit it to the Registrar’s Office. Incomplete Petition Contracts also consist of a $5 charge to student bar accounts (Billing & Accounts Receivable System<sup>2</sup>) before removing the 'Incomplete' notation. However, the 'Incomplete' notation, 'I,' and the Final Grade are on the transcript even after finishing this process.

Whereas, students do not receive ‘Incomplete’ grades because they are irresponsible or unwilling to complete coursework. Instead, it is due to circumstances beyond their control, such as disabilities and chronic illnesses, hospitalizations, extensive and necessary increases in working hours, natural disasters, and deaths in the immediate family<sup>3</sup>.

<https://www.finance.ucla.edu/business-finance-services/student-accounts/billing-accounts-receivable-system-bar>

Whereas, students with disabilities and chronic illnesses, including those living with Long COVID, are especially likely to get an 'Incomplete.' Mentioned students often need extra time to do their work due to hospitalizations, fatigue, pain flares, or other difficulties caused by disability and chronic illness.

Whereas, disadvantaged students, in general, are likely to get multiple 'Incomplete' grades since they are more vulnerable to barriers in completing their coursework.

Whereas, a permanent 'Incomplete' transcript notation penalizes students. Review committees for graduate school programs, employers, fellowships, grants, and financial award programs may flag 'Incomplete' transcript notations, which may prevent them from receiving opportunities. Students may also feel pressured to disclose the reason behind an 'Incomplete.' Disclosure may entail revealing a disability or a painful personal event they endured, which is psychologically taxing and can subject students to prejudice.

Whereas, all students who get 'Incomplete' notations on their transcript have endured obstacles, which an equitable university must do its best to remove. Since disabled students frequently get 'Incomplete' grades due to their disabilities, current practices of leaving 'Incomplete' notations on students' transcripts forever is a form of discrimination based on disability, serving as a barrier to the inclusion of disabled students and the diversification of higher education.

Whereas, other UCs have decided to put a stop to the misuse of 'Incomplete' notations to punish and discriminate against students instead of helping them by not leaving 'Incomplete' on their transcripts forever<sup>4</sup>.

Whereas, inflicting this harm on students who have not done anything wrong, just because circumstances beyond their control made it necessary for them to receive extra time to complete their coursework, is unjust and incompatible with the True Bruin Value of "Respect-I will respect the rights & dignity of others."<sup>5</sup>

Whereas, leaving 'Incomplete' notations on transcripts forever puts a stigmatizing and harmful mark on many disabled students because of their need for disability accommodations and is a form of flagging. Flagging is a manner of marking student records that reveals the disabilities and need for accommodations by students who have disabilities. Flagging unnecessarily and inappropriately exposes disabled students to discrimination, and therefore the Justice Department and federal courts have ruled that flagging is a violation of the Americans with Disabilities Act.<sup>6</sup>

Whereas, UCLA's Academic Senate, administration, and student body have expressed their commitments to non-discrimination, civil rights, equity, diversity, and inclusion (EDI) for every community, including students with disabilities<sup>7</sup> and disadvantaged students. Therefore, they have committed to removing unjust obstacles and establishing equal opportunity and dignity for all members of the UCLA community.

Therefore, let it be resolved that USAC stands with the brilliant activists for disability rights and student rights who have been working for years to reform the 'Incomplete' notation. USAC urges the Academic Senate to make 'Incompletes' into temporary placeholders instead of permanent marks on transcripts, so 'Incompletes' can follow their original intention of assisting and not punishing students that try their best to complete coursework despite uncontrollable obstacles.

Let it further be resolved, that USAC advocates that the Academic Senate extends the amount of time for students to remove their 'Incomplete' notations from the next regular quarter to the next three regular quarters, not including Summer sessions, and remove the $5 bar account charge to provide leniency to students and a better chance at completing their Incomplete Petition Contract and achieving desired grades, effective Spring 2022.

Let it further be resolved, that USAC calls for the Academic Senate to consider a retroactive extension for two additional quarters for students with an active Incomplete Petition Contract where the deadline is to submit work by the end of Spring 2022.

Let it finally be resolved that once a student either completes their work and gets a passing grade or does not complete it in time and gets an F, UCLA will need to remove the 'I' from their transcript. Instead, UCLA will replace the 'Incomplete' with the same notation any other student would have on their transcript, indicating which quarter they took the class and their final grade. The averaging of grade points and units will only affect the cumulative GPA and not the term GPA, as listed in the current policy<sup>8</sup>.

WHEREAS, on May 2nd, 2022, a draft of a Supreme Court document was leaked to the public, demonstrating that there is an intent to overturn Roe v. Wade<sup>9</sup>; and

WHEREAS, in 1972, the decision of Roe v Wade was established to protect an individual's right to safe and legal abortions by extending protections in the name of one's constitutional right to privacy<sup>10</sup>; and

WHEREAS, this present attack on Roe v Wade is not the first: in 1976, the Hyde Amendment determined restrictions on abortion options for impregnated individuals. Subsequently, under the Reagan Administration, new laws gave states individual autonomy over decisions on abortions. This was exacerbated by the Affordable Care Act's divestment from reproductive healthcare, including cuts to abortion cost coverage, followed by attempts to defund Planned Parenthood – all events that emboldened abortion bans in states like Mississippi and Texas<sup>11</sup>; and

WHEREAS, while the Jewish community and other religious minorities have a range of opinions on abortion, there is a strong and broad commitment in these traditions to defending the life of pregnant women above all else, and therefore many abortion bans will undermine their religious and cultural freedom; and

WHEREAS, the impediment of reproductive freedom would have the most disproportionate impact on the lives of marginalized individuals, such as BIPOC individuals, LGBTQ+ community members, people with disabilities, and other populations who are vulnerable to systemic injustice and an inequitable healthcare system<sup>14</sup>; and
